

California's Only HR Conference for Life Science

Biocom California's HR Conference for Life Science, co-hosted with MarshMcLennan Agency, will return to Northern California and Southern California this fall. This conference provides a unique opportunity for human resources professionals to network, gain new insights into complex challenges, and discover the strategies being utilized by executives and HR colleagues within life science.

Featuring illuminating keynotes, dynamic panel discussions, and interactive town halls, this statewide conference will continue to deliver the high-level content and thought leadership our members have come to expect over the last decade.
